

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONTACT:

JEFF SOLOMON

516.659.0664

info@jeffsolomonmusic.com

HEAR THE EP: jeffsolomonmusic.com

UKULELE-SLINGING SINGER/SONGWRITER JEFF SOLOMON TO PERFORM FIRST BAY AREA SHOW AT MAKE-OUT ROOM ON WED., OCTOBER 5TH

Jeff Solomon, best known from the popular New York sketch comedy group Elephant Larry, will soon make his first San Francisco appearance to promote his debut EP, “Around the Square.” The 6-song EP, which showcases Jeff’s talents as an ukuleleist/saxophonist/keyboardist, marks the first major collaboration between Solomon and up-and-coming producer/engineer Andrew Felluss. “Around the Square,” which was produced independently over a 9 month period, is set to begin distribution through respected indie outfit ROIR Records (Clap Your Hands Say Yeah (dist.), Television, Bad Brains, Bill Laswell).

Early reviews have been strong, with comparisons being drawn to Jonathan Richman, Andrew Bird, and Rufus Wainwright. The popular U.K. journal Drowned In Sound called the EP “a promising collection of songs that display an impressive amount of weight. Immediately likable and full of nuances to pick over.” Radio personality Jonathan L called the record “delightful... This Manhattan boy can sure sing. The KCRW’s of the world should be all over this.” The staff of VH1’s Song of the Year gave the single “Temporary Song” a score of 94/100, saying, “The music has a strong appeal that the listener won’t be able to get enough of. [The] vocals are soulful and beautiful! The melodies are outstanding.” And the NY Press remarked, “Solomon has enough practical musicianship to turn oddities into very successful, brainy-complex pop songs.”

San Fran comedy fans may recognize Jeff Solomon as a writer/actor/musician for the award-winning Elephant Larry, who performed at the SF Sketchfest alongside The Sklar Brothers and Dan Castellaneta’s Totally Looped. The New York Times recently called E.L. “a hilarious multimedia mix of the deadpan and the maniacal” and SFist referred to them as “pretty darn funny.” Elephant Larry’s act, which often showcases Solomon’s musical efforts, has won acclaim from the mainstream press (Time Out NY, Back Stage) and indie critics alike, and Solomon is aiming to score a similar success with his first “legit” offering.

Andrew Felluss, who produced, engineered, and mixed “Around the Square,” is a protégé of renowned producer Phil Ramone who has engineered on high-profile projects including Ray Charles’ “Genius Loves Company,” Paul Simon, Rod Stewart, and Jay-Z. Andrew is excited to take part in these developments with Jeff, as he has with other emerging talents, such as Ryan O’Neill and Marwood.

Solomon studied classical composition with recent Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Steven Stucky at Cornell, where he began to build a following for his engaging ukulele-songwriter shows. He soon found himself opening for well-known indie acts like Ari Hest, and in late 2003, Jeff started his touring career with two packed headliner gigs at CB’s Gallery. Jeff assembled a band with players from Bruce Cockburn’s band and N.Y. mainstays like the Allison Cipris Band, and his current promotional tour was kicked off with a standing-room-only performance at N.Y.’s Living Room.

“If you put Joe Jackson in a blender with The Jayhawks and Tom Waits from his ‘Heart of Saturday Night’ era, you might get something like Jeff Solomon. Or you might just get a really gross smoothie. Or life in prison.”

PERFORMANCE

Jeff Solomon (solo show)

@ Make-Out Room

Wednesday, Oct. 5th at 9 PM $6

3225 22nd Street

RELEVANT LINKS

www.jeffsolomonmusic.com

www.elephantlarry.com

www.cdbaby.com/jsolomon

www.makeoutroom.com